Walter Bursch, the junior national outdoor 220-yard low hurdle champion, will be the back man at his specialty, besides being a starter in the sprint races. This innocent looking paragraph is chock full of gloom for several hundred six-day fans who contemplate remaining in the Garden until the finish of the big race. And here's the reason:

Last night it was decided to administer the first clean-up of the week at 6 o'clock this morning, and George H. Young, in charge of the police arrangements, with forty plainclothes men, will do the job efficiently, sending very mother's son out to "meet the ir" at that hour.

One of the sprints of the early even ig yesterday are sending that the continuous at the one-mile race.

Two hours before this Anderson and Sullivan lost two more laps during a sprint led by "Grassy" Ryan, and Spears, Linart and Drobach fell, but were not hurt. At 7:10 a. m. Madden and Walthour fell heavily on the Fourth Avenue turn. Madden jumped up, but Walthour lay prone and had to be assisted to his cot, bleeding from severe gashes on both legs.

Bobby, who many believed would not try to continue, came back at 9:05 o'clock, heavily swathed in bandages and remained on the track for three hours, although riding with a visible effort.

In regaining their lost lap Eaton and Madden did a clever bit of riding, catching the field off guard. Eaton started, jumping shead by fifty yards and increasing the distance to half a lap before the others awoke to their task.

Madden made a beautiful pick-up, and after a half mile sprinting duel caught the pack, placing the team on. This made eleven teams tied for the lead and one, Sullivan and Anderson, ix laps behind.
